Decision Due Monday

City May Lease Airport

The Belle Glade City Commission is expected to officially sign an agreement Monday night to lease the Belle Glade Airport from the state Department of Transportation.

The airport, which has been operated by Glades Correctional Institution for the state Internal Improvement Fund, was leased by the DOT with hopes the city would assume operations.

The city, under the agreement, will sub-lease the airport for one dollar per year from the DOT and assume responsibility for operations and upkeep.

No definite decision has been made yet but the city will probably take advantage of an already existing group of flyers at the airport organized last year as the Belle Glade Airport Advisory Committee.

Committee president is Howard Barker, who owns Ag-Air Inc.

City Manager William Mallory has said several times that while administration of the airport may be relatively simple, the city has no one at present with the expertise to handle the job.

"For instance," Mallory said Monday, "I've already been asked by one man if he can build a new hangar and I don't know. What's involved in building a new hangar?"

Far from knowing the answers to all the problems involved, we don't even know what questions to ask," he said.

The commission and the DOT have been in contact with each other on the airport since last fall when DOT Mass Transit engineer Duke Kimbrough wrote Mallory proposing the city take over what Kimbrough said may be the busiest grass strip in the state.

Kimbrough's letter was a follow-through on a verbal proposal during a meeting held Feb. 7, 1973 when the airport was being considered as a site for a permanent Palm Beach Junior College Glades campus.

The college had been offered the site by the Internal Improvement Board but the small storm of controversy which followed caused the PBJC board of trustees to back off from the agreement.

Another reason the trustees decided against the airport as a campus site was because of the tangle of sub-leases already held by the users of the airport. The airport was offered, in the first place to get out from under the responsibility of operating the airstrip.

GCI was reportedly relieved of that responsibility officially as of Monday.

Kimbrough and the Airport Advisory Committee first met with the city last October and meetings have been periodically held several times since then.

Negotiations over the agreement have gone on for some time now, with the city turning down the earlier agreements offered by the DOT.

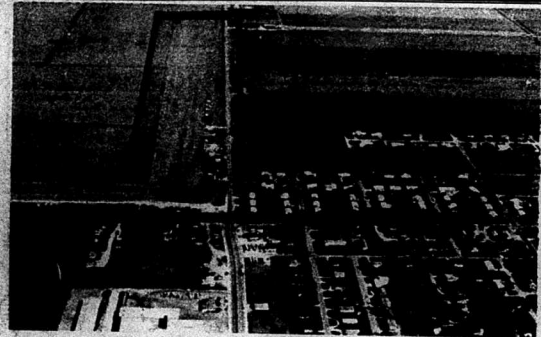

The commission, on the advice of City Attorney John Baker, threw out the first agreement and Baker drew up another one, which the DOT has approved.

One of the points of contention has been the legal description of the land involved. The city wanted the full amount of land formerly controlled by GCI, up to the area fenced in for GCI cattle grazing pasture.

Mallory said that up until last week, the DOT was using a map showing the city would be leasing all that land but the legal description of the property didn't jibe with the map.

"And the legal description is what would be binding," the city manager said.

One point the commissioners have made clear is that they have no desire to be bound by the agreement to any schedule of improvements the city would be responsible for.

THE CITY IS PLANNING TO TAKE OVER OPERATIONS AT AIRPORT ...seen here from the view of a pilot approaching the east-west runway to land.

The DOT agreement provides for the DOT to be responsible for all such improvements as runway lights and communications.

Kimbrough said the reason the DOT is so interested in having the city take over operations of the airport is to provide the city with the capability of handling STOL (Short Takeoff and Landing) aircraft service.

He said it "would be a shame" for the city to lose the airport at a time when many small towns around the state are having trouble getting airports and added the Belle Glade agreement could be a model for other such agreements around the state.

One problem Mallory said he foresees, however, is complaints from people living around the airport.

He said he has had a large number of telephone calls from nearby residents complaining because crop dusters using the facility take off too low over nearby homes, occasionally spraying some chemicals.

"I hate to use the term 'rude awakening,'" he said, "but I'm afraid that's what some of the crop dusters out there may be in for."

"Up to now," Mallory said of the complaints, "I've always had a pat answer. I just told them I didn't have anything to do with the airport but if we take it over, someone is going to have to answer those complaints."

I Am America

I am America.

I lost a lot of blood when I was born 198 years ago and a lot of people didn't think I was going to live. But I was a rugged little baby and I survived.

I've had a rough life. But I've come through it all to still be the most powerful nation on this earth.

Why, I remember when I was only 36 years old my Mother Country England tried to pick a fight with me. It was my first real test on the battlefield with another country.

Like most young kids though, I didn't really know what I wanted. I almost tore myself apart in 1861. It was terrible. Brother fought against brother—father against son.

But I came out of it a better country. I was united once again. It was time to start competing with the rest of the world on an economic front, rather than with arms.

I put my mind and body to the task. I stretched my legs from sea to shining sea. I worked and I sweated and part of me died. But by the time I was 124 years old, I was one of the most industrialized nations in the world.

Then the ugly specter of war raised its head again. But it was way over in Europe—and, still being a young country, I had the foolish notion I could stay out of it.

I was wrong.

Before that First World War was over, I had sent two million of my young men onto the battlefields of Europe. More than 100,000 of them never returned. But it seemed worth it then since this was the war to end all wars.

How naïve I was back then. Twenty years of uneasy peace followed.

My great depression of 1929 caused me great pain. Millions became paupers overnight.

It was a sad, sad sight, which inconspicuously was only fully lifted when the world was again plunged into war.

The German war machine was at it again. Stilled in 1919, less than 20 years later, it ran rampant through Poland while the rest of the world sat by and watched.

Once again I tried to stay out of the war in Europe. But I wasn't so naïve this time. I knew the day would come when more of my young men would be sacrificed on foreign soil.

Then, in the middle of my 165th year, my darkest hour came. On Dec. 7, 1941, without provocation, I was attacked that early Sunday morning at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

Thousands of my young men died that day. They were the first of over 400,000 who would lose their life in this most horrible of wars.

It took the most awesome weapon ever known to man—the Atomic Bomb—and this most terrible world wide tragedy, but from it I emerged as the most single powerful nation in the world.

That was almost 30 years ago and there hasn't been another world conflict since then.

Yes, there are pretenders to my throne. There are nations who would see me down and out without a trace of regret. But through it all I keep my chin up. I am free. I am brave.

I am America.

Junior College May Find Home This Month

Palm Beach Junior College President Dr. Harold G. Manor said Tuesday the college may announce a permanent site for the Glades campus in the near future.

"Negotiations are going on," Manor said, "and we hope to know something this month but I don't feel I should make any further comment at this time."

The junior college president said he feels the negotiations are at the stage when any publicity about particulars could prove damaging.

The college has been looking for a permanent site since it was first decided to institute a Glades Center two and a half years ago and the center was installed in the Belle Glade National Guard Armory and Glades General Hospital.

Most of the center's classes are being held in the armory, which the college has just renewed the lease on for another two years.

The original lease was also for two years.

The college began negotiations at one time with the State Internal Improvement Fund to take over Belle Glade Airport from Glades Correctional Institution, who has administered the airport for a number of years until Monday.

Those negotiations raised a storm of controversy, however, which ended in a meeting in February 1973 during which a petition was presented asking the college to look elsewhere.

The college's board of trustees decided then not to pursue the airport site.

Another site was offered by the City of Pahokee but the trustees and the site, located at the old Everglades Migrant Labor Camp on U.S. 41 south of Pahokee, was too far north of the center of population the campus is expected to serve.

Manor said Tuesday the college would release the information on the proposed site if and when definite action is taken.

He Saved 3 Teachers

by Cathedra Taylor
Herald Staff Writer

Thanks to a former Belle Glade educator, three area residents turned a second chance at education into productive teaching careers.

Britton G. Sayles, former principal of Everglades Vocational High School—the former runner to Lake Shore High School—recently was honored by Mrs. Annie Pearl Campbell, Mrs. Christine Maynor and Mrs. Willie Mae White for his aid in preparing them for college.

Sayles presently is north county administrator for the Palm Beach County School System.

"He admitted us in day school along with the regular students," said Mrs. Campbell, who admittedly remembers pressure from "adults in the community that didn't want us to go to school with the children."

"We were eight to 10 years older than the other seniors."

A migrant worker for nearly eight years, after completing junior high school, Mrs. Campbell continued studies through grade 11 by taking correspondence courses.

"The only high school we could have gone to at that time," she continued, "was in West Palm Beach. And none of us could afford to travel that far."

Mrs. Maynor then was a beautician, and Mrs. White owned a small grocery store. Because of the time lapse, Mrs. Campbell recalls, work for the women was double that of other students.

"So much time had passed," said Mrs. Campbell, "there were many things I had forgotten. The name of the game was catch-up and keep-up. If you know what I mean."

"We had to spend a lot of time in the library, rehashing things we hadn't retained. Plus we had to keep pace with our new classmates."

Despite apparent hardship, all three women maintained "B or better" academic averages.

Without help from Sayles, Mrs. Campbell feels she would have quit after the first year of high school. She doubts for this year she would have elected higher

We Made Changes

This special July Fourth edition caused a couple of changes in the placing of material in the Herald as well as the date of issue.

Because the Fourth falls on Thursday this year, the Herald was put out one day early to get it to our readers on time.

The changes of scheduling necessary to go to press a day early resulted in placing the editorial page on page 28 and the classified advertising pages on 68 and 78.

Disney Contest Winner

Eight-year old Bernice Dent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Lee Dent of 608 S.W. Seventh St., is the third weekly winner of the Belle Glade Herald's Walt Disney World contest. The Gladesview Elementary third-grader was presented a toy cash register by White's Home and Auto Store owner Charles Ward, "so you'll have some place to keep all your money," Bernice said that if she wins the grand prize of a trip to Walt Disney World valued at more than $400, which she's still eligible for, she'll take her brother, sister and mother. The contest is now in the fourth of eight weeks and the weekly winners all have a chance, along with other entrants, to win the overall prize.

Pahokee Fireworks Display Set

The annual July Fourth fireworks will take place at sundown this evening at the Pahokee Harbor according to Dick Korbin, chairman for the Pahokee Chamber of Commerce special events committee.

Inflation has hit the fireworks business. Korbin said and the Chamber will once again be soliciting donations from persons as they drive into the Herbert Hoover Dike.

Korbin said the chamber collected $270 from the crowd who saw the 1973 July 4th fireworks but he said the price has increased to more than $1,000 for this year's display if COWS

The Parson Pontificates

Happy Birthday, USA! And many happy returns of the Day! After all she's been through lately, I guess we ought to offer her a little special kindness on the Fourth of July. Isn't it curious that a certain kind of national masochism could gain some popularity among us, and that we should be encouraged to despise our heritage? It sort of reminds me of the little boy who killed his father and mother and pled for mercy because he was an orphan! The Good Ole USA has nurtured me, fed me well, given me some great opportunities, provided me a lot of freedom, and has assured me of a vote in every election. She has also given me a rich spiritual heritage and complete freedom of religion, a blessing by no means universally enjoyed. I'm proud to be a son of this nation. Will you join me in chorus of "God Bless America"? Let's hear it for the USA!

Noah's Ark Destroyed?

Collegedale, Tenn.—An archaeologist who in 1960 spent several weeks with an expedition searching for Noah's ark on Mt. Ararat now believes the ark may have been destroyed shortly after the Flood.

Dr. Siegfried H. Horn, dean of the Seventh-Day Adventist Theological Seminary at Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Mich., expressed this opinion to some 700 ministers attending the Adventist Bible Conference at Southern Missionary College here in May. Horn said he feels survivors of the Flood may have used the timbers of the ark to build their homes in a world newly recovered from total deluge.

The dean is not overly concerned at such a possibility, however. Ample proof of Biblical authenticity is continually being uncovered in Middle East countries, he says.

"The stream of new discoveries," Horn told the assembled ministers, "provides so much evidence for a continued updating of our knowledge of Biblical history that it is hard to keep up with it."

Dr. Horn told the conference that "archeology is today's big business in Israel. In 1971 the government of Israel issued 131 excavation permits." Many of these, he added, have been major excavations.

The professor has himself made 18 expeditions to the Middle East, the first of these at Heshbon in Jordan. Excavations have been carried on at Shechem and Gazer, Jerusalem and Hasor, Arad and Ashdod, Gibbon and Beersheba, Caesarea and Tirzah.

"Important archaeological discoveries have also been made in Iraq, Syria, Lebanon, Turkey, Cyprus, Egypt, and on the Sinai Peninsula," he said.

Horn reported that last summer his expedition discovered what he believes to be "the remains of a huge open-air water reservoir from Old Testament times." The evidence lay about 30 feet below the present surface.

Evidence of organized labor—management relations was also uncovered, the archaeologist said. An ostracum (fragment of clay tablet) with Hebrew text on it and dated about 630 B.C. turned out to be a letter of complaint from a peasant to a high official regarding unfair treatment by his superior. The Bible record helps to explain many of the archaeological finds, Horn states. And the archaeological finds tend to support the Bible accounts.

Most important of all such discoveries to date, he said, were of course, the Dead Sea scrolls. However, a large number of extremely important discoveries have been made which illustrate or illuminate certain biblical passages or which corroborate historical events described in the Bible.

Horn urged the ministers "to retain a healthy amount of critical attitude toward all archaeological writings" and keep up to date in this discipline which is constantly subject to change."

Baby Business Booming

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Haler of 108 N.E. 1st St., Apt. E, Belle Glade, announced the birth of a nine-pound, one-and-a-half ounce baby boy June 19 at Everglades Memorial Hospital in Pahokee. The child was named Gary Paul Haler Jr.

FACE RETIREMENT WITH PRAYERFUL ACTION

Man never really retires from his most important responsibilities - to God and to his neighbor.

THE TRUTH THAT HEALS

Broadcast this Sunday over station WSWN.

[A Christian Science Radio Series]

God gave us His glory
To see and to have
But the thing was too big
To bring so near.

God gave us His love
To heal and to bind
But His love was too great
For our finite mind.

So to reach down and tell us
What little He can
God came as an infant
And lived as a man.

With this ultimate gift
God strengthened our sight
So now we can share
His eternal light.

Despedida de Soltera

Gloria M. Espallargas

El pasado 27 de Junio se celebró la despedida de soltera de la simpática y bella Gloria Margarita Espallargas que el día 29 de Julio a las 4:30 p.m. contrajo matrimonio con el joven Frankie Rodriguez Machi.

Esta tuvo lugar en el Hall de la Iglesia Episcopal siendo las organizadoras Tressie Alvarez, Rebecca Miranda de Rionda, Oquilda Espallargas de Sandoz, Silvia Ana Rodriguez, Maria A. Batista y su hermana Maria Isabel.

Fue una tarde encantadora. El local lucia precioso. Fueron dispuestas mesitas individuales cubiertas con vaporosos mantelillos blancos de opal bordados sobre largos mantos amarillos. Se comieron estos con lindos casticos de paja blanca llenos de margaritas naturales.

Muy linda la mesa de la novia. Estaba tambien cubierta por fino mantel blanco de hilo, rematado en las esquinas con unas lindas campañas sostenidas por unas lazadas de cintas amarillas.

Como unico adorno tenia en el centro un bello cesto lleno de margaritas.

El buffet exquisito. Tambien muy divertidos los juegos, rifas, etc.

Tuvo muy lindos regalos de muchas de las asistentes. Y como regalo colectivo un lindo juego de maletas.

Por todo esto felicitamos a las organizadoras y esperamos que Gloria haya pasado una tarde muy feliz e inolvidable.

Karen's Korner

By Karen Hansford

We're getting well into the softball season this summer with three weeks of games behind us (two for the women, three for the men) and already the men players have had two accidents, both resulting in broken bones.

On the women's side, other than a few collisions, jammed fingers and broken glasses everything's A-okay-so far.

I've been pretty lucky about collisions this year. But ask just about anyone on Wallis Pharmacy, I've got to be the most colliding (?) person playing ball. I run into anything and everything.

Take last year for instance. At the beginning of the season I ran into our shortstop. Besides knocking both of us down, the crash also jolted the ball down the right of her hand, causing a runner from the other team to score. Needless to say there was some embarrassment about that.

And then there's one I'll never forget. Once while we were practicing, I was catcher and Frances McLeod was playing third base. Our coach hit a high pop fly right between third base and homeplate and both of us went for it.

I heard him call catcher's ball and I figured well, she's gonna back off. The next thing I knew I had run into what seemed like a brick wall and I was flying three feet in the air, while skyrockets zoomed past me. Yep, I can finally say I know what it's like to see stars. I was even seeing stripes!

When my head finally cleared I found myself sitting rather close to the pitcher's mound and I wondered what in the world had happened. Meanwhile, there was Frances sprawled over the mound on the third base line clutching the ball. That's only a couple of incidents. I would tell you about more but it would take a whole page.

Of course, one collision happened last Monday night between Glades Sugar and Timesaver. As one player on Timesaver headed toward third base, the Glades Sugar pitcher ran over to the base to back up the third baseman (woman?). They all three hit each other at the same time and everyone went down, head over head, heel over heel. The Timesaver player recuperated first and headed on home to score.

Independence Day is here and I'm going to one of my favorite retreats-Fort Myers Beach again. Yeah, I'm gonna soak up some of that sun if it's shining, and it's better. I'm tired of all this rainy weather and having to worry about whether or not the softball games are going to have to be postponed because of bad weather.

Of course, I could always stick around Belle Glade and go to that hog barbeque I was invited to. Jim and Jennie Huggins, the managers at Timlin's Trailer Park, are putting on a barbeque for the fourth and they're going to cook a whole hog. Imagine all that meat! Unfortunately, I'm going to have to pass this one. Maybe I can make it for the next year.

I hear a lot of people from Belle Glade are planning to go over to the beach for the holiday. It's not surprising since it seems like half of Belle Glade is always over there during the summer and over the holiday weekends.

They do have an impressive display of fireworks for the fourth, very much so like the ones over in our neighboring town, Pahokee. And what could be more relaxing than to lay on the beach at night and watch the stars sparkle? Nothing-unless it's a peaceful night camping out under the stars.

Oh well, I hope everyone has a bang-up fourth of July!

Softball Continues; Wallis, Timesaver Lead

Thursday night, June 20, found Wallis Pharmacy opposite Royal's in the Women's Slow Pitch Softball League.

Each team scored three runs in the first inning to keep the score at a tie. Then Wallis went ahead in the second inning when Judy Snyder scored. Playing a tight game, Royal's added a run in the top of the third inning when the left fielder rounded the bases to run the score one more.

That was short-lived, however, as the Wallis players made five runs in the bottom of the third and fourth innings and held Royal's to one run until the fifth inning, when they scored two runs to make it nine to six.

Royal's made one last effort but could only add one more run in the bottom of the fifth inning, when they scored two runs to make the final score 11 to seven.

In the second game, Glades Sugar came up from a previous loss to slaughter Rashedy Dry Cleaners 26 to four.

It started out to be a pretty good game as neither team scored in the first inning and Glades Sugar could only make two runs in the second to lead.

The girls on Rashedy scored a run in the top of the third when Maria Herred led the team.

scoring to trail by only one run. Breaking away in the bottom of the third, the Glades Sugar team added six runs to total eight. Rosa Goodbread made a double to help the team.

Rashedy added a run in the fourth but couldn't hold Glades Sugar as the team scored four more runs to lead by 10.

Making another effort in the fifth inning, Becky Bush led the Rashedy girls in making three runs to tighten the game a bit.

But after that it was all Glades Sugar as they made 14 runs to go ahead and win 24-4.

Monday night, June 24, the rains came. But it didn't stop Timesaver and Orosela from playing their game on the Canal Point field.

The Orosela girls went out in front in the first inning when Mary Barwell rounded the bases to give the team a run. Undaunted, Timesaver struck in the second inning with 11 runs to take the lead and they kept it also as they held Orosela to no more score until the fifth inning when they caught Orosela.

Meanwhile, Susan Salvatore, Susan McCarley, Joanna Rawls and Janet added a run each in the top of the fifth to widen the lead. Orosela could only add one more run in the sixth when Mary Barwell scored again and then let Timesaver make nine runs in the last two innings to make the final score 23-3.

The second game was called on account of rain, and the games which were supposed to be played Tuesday night were called also because Mother Nature wouldn't let up.

The sun came out again on Thursday as Orosela faced Indiantown, hoping for its second win of the season.

Both teams played well as neither scored until the second inning when Mary Barwell scored to give Orosela a short-lived lead. Karen Thompson, Betty Stuart and Maria Smiley scored in the bottom of the second to make the score three to one, in favor of Indiantown.

Each team made three consecutive outs in the third inning to keep the score the same. Rita Dwyer made a run in the top of the fourth to tighten the game again by only one run.

Not to be let down, the Indiantown girls held the score in the fifth inning on the double by Debbie Harder. That double was almost a home run over the fence as the ball hit only about a foot.

Orosela finally broke through in the sixth and seventh innings and added nine runs, while holding Indiantown to only one more and won the game, 11 to six.

Lynda Hendrix got it started in the first inning when she slammed out a triple and then scored to make the first of Timesaver's runs. Holding Timesaver to only three runs in the first inning, Rashedy kept its hopes up as Maria Langston rounded the bases to trail by only two runs.

But it wasn't for long as Timesaver proved to be superior, making seven runs in the second inning to go ahead by five. The Rashedy players added three runs in the third inning on runs by Kim Serouge, Janet Mills and Becky Bush. Cindy Myers knocked a double to help the runs score.

Rashedy could only make three more runs, however, in the rest of the game as Indiantown held them down and then went wild on the scoring as the girls hit balls over the plate and 22 more runs crossed the plate. Lynda Hendrix hit a double and Susan McCarley made a double and a home run.

The final score was 32 to seven.

DECLARATION OF PEACE

WE SHALL BEAT THEIR SWORDS INTO PLOWSHARES AND THEIR SPEARS INTO PRUNING HOOKS. NATION SHALL NOT LIE UP AGAINST NATION. NEITHER SHALL THEY LEARN WAR ANY MORE.

One of the ideals sought after by most Americans is the ability to live in harmony with our neighbors. Wendell's is a real victory to see strides made toward harmony, rather than discord.

If each of us were to reach out our hands in friendship to one other person every day, perhaps in time we could make the greatest proclamation of all, a Declaration of Peace. What better way to SUP-PORT AMERICA!

Our previous booklet entitled in the Day of the United States, is an older booklet and it provides for all the world to see and for all Americans to cherish. And the tradition of Wendell Phillips, who lived and died for the cause of peace, is a tradition that we must keep alive. While we may disagree on the methods, we should not disagree on the goal - that of preserving the peaceful democratic method of the free world.

This flag is a symbol, not of conquest, but of history, the history of a man and woman who in time and day for it, brought this village in with us and who only by the sacrifice of the thousands did we see a new world.

INFLATION? PROOF HOMEOWNER POLICY

Many people have found that after a fire or theft that their homes and belongings were not adequately insured. Because of inflation and other factors, the replacement value of homes has risen immensely during the past ten years. Insurance coverage that was adequate some years ago may no longer be sufficient. To be certain that your home is adequately insured, you must first determine the replacement value of the home itself and the market worth of the items inside. The value of the land on which the home is built is not a factor.

In many states, you can obtain an inflation-guard endorsement on your homeowners insurance policy to protect yourself against the dangers of inflation. This policy increases the value of the coverage by one percent every three months at a very nominal cost.

Like statisticians? They show that the person with the least chance of having an accident is a 64-year-old woman riding a 250 CC motorcycle at 43 mph on any Thursday at 2:35 p.m.

If a tire blows out on your car, do not slam on the brakes. Keep a firm grip on the steering wheel, do not straight ahead, and slow gradually to a stop.

When turning, you should give a clear signal during the last 100 feet before you turn to warn other drivers and pedestrians.

In 1960 U.S. car buyers bought six conditions for only seven percent of cars sold. In 1969 the figure jumped to fifty-five percent, costing everything from economy jobs to luxury liners.

If you're thinking new car, now is the time to come in here to JIM HERRING CHEVROLET-OLDSMOBILE in Pahokee and check over the 1974 line. Great cars, in all sizes, just the right one for you and your family. Stop by and check them out, or give us a call, today.

"Are you lost again," the woman asked her husband who was driving. "No, I'm right here, the blamed road is what's lost!"

When riding a motor cycle in traffic, look over your shoulder to make sure the way is clear before changing lanes. Stop car thieves: Do it this way. Remove the key from your car when leaving it. Lock all car doors. Roll up and secure all windows, tailgates. Leave nothing of value in passenger compartment. Lock packages and clothes in trunk. Don't leave your registration papers or proof of ownership in the car.

Cat eyes? Not really. At night your ability to see and recognize objects decreases by 20 feet with each ten mph increase in your speed. Show down at night to see, and live longer!

Ceremony Rained in

Rogers Dedicates Pump Station

U.S. Congressman Paul Rogers was scheduled to dedicate the pump station south of South Bay on US27, which is the first part of a watershed program, at 3 p.m. Saturday.

At 2:59 p.m., the heavens opened up with a hard downpour that sent the 39 people attending the ceremony scuttling for cover.

After moving the podium set up for the occasion, and the few chairs, inside the pump house, several speakers attempted to outshot the thunderous din caused by the heavy rain hammering on the shed's metal roof.

"I guess this is the Lord's way of telling us he likes short speeches," Rogers quipped when he began his talk, "and I'm going to end mine before lightning strikes."

The pumping station was built as a joint project by the

Palm Beach-Broward Soil and Water Conservation District and the South Florida's Conservation District

Rogers said one thing that impressed him with the pumping station is that the pumps were made in Florida. The pumps were manufactured by M&W Ironworks, Inc. of Deerfield Beach. Company president David Eller was present for the dedication.

"I'm especially proud of this," Rogers said, "because the brains which went into the design are right here in the state and this kind of activity will win the war against inflation."

Rogers was introduced by Palm Beach County Commissioner E.W. "Bud" Weaver as "the man who will continue representing us in Congress after the next election."

Rogers announced last week he will seek re-election to his seat in Congress.

Representatives.
Rogers has also been plagued with rain at two other speaking engagements over the weekend, after the dedication.

"I've been in the Glades a long time," he said, "and one of the problems is that it's usually too dry or too damp. But I'll take it damp any day when we have equipment like this."

dedication was Fred John, playing the dual role of manager of the South Florida Conservancy District the Palm Beach-Broward Soil and Water Conservation District board of supervisors member.

Others were Palm Beach-Broward Area Conservationist Donald Vandergriff and State Conservationist William Austin.

This special way of celebrating doesn't get started on Independence Day, however. It starts a few days in advance when the shoats are killed and butchered.

Less Bang for the Buck

You get less bang for the buck anywhere you look these days, including the annual fireworks display at Pahokee.

Our neighbors to the north have traditionally put on a fine show to help end the July Fourth holiday but rising costs have hit the Pahokee Chamber of Commerce where it hurts the most. ... most.

Right in the pocketbook.

The annual show will contain about the same amount of swoosh-fizz-bang as last year but will cost the Pahokee chamber $100 more.

Last year, for the first time, the chamber asked for help from the citizens enjoying the show. Boy Scouts collected a total of $270 at the entrance to the dike and they'll be doing the same thing this year.

Assuming they collect the same amount this year, that still leaves the chamber to absorb more than $700.

Pahokee has traditionally played host to the entire Glades area every Independence Day, and a gracious host they've been over the years but now they need some help.

Let's dig deep.

It's Those Rainy Moving Day Blues Again

I'd rather take a beating than move but guess how I spent the past weekend... in addition to helping put out a special July 4th section... a day early.

I was busy as a two-legged dog scratching fleas.

Don't claim to know what the worst part of moving is, whether it's moving out or settling into the new place. Neither is much fun.

But it sure does help when you have a landlord like Jim Huggins. Jim and my new neighbor, Smiley Crews, pitched right in and helped install a heavy humk of iron called an air conditioner.

All right, Jim, so that's not exactly the way it was, but that's not there to hand you a screwdriver or hammer when you wanted it... or a can of beer.

Jim's one of your all-around Jacks of all trades who's real nice to have around when you have a job to do; at least it's real nice when you aren't any more mechanically inclined than the Cracker Crumb, or don't have any more tools.

He's a man of real integrity too. You can't buy him but a bribe of a few studs will be a powerful help.

Showing another side of his talents, Jim was out the next morning butchering pigs for the Fourth, which he was also in charge of cooking.

Didn't even have to work at it to get an invitation to the cookout. Now that's the kind of neighbors I like.

Has it been wet enough for you?

Seems like that's the way it is though. Get a dry spell, and just about the time you think the Good Lord's given up on the idea of damp, along comes a frog-strangler of a gully-washer.

I don't think I've seen so much steady rain since Hurricane Agnes came through a couple of years back; or the tailwinds of it at any rate, and did so much damage with tornadoes over in LaBelle and up in Okeechobee.

And it was worse in Clewiston. I don't know about any of you people, but now I'm beginning to wonder if we're going to have a day anytime soon when we don't have any rain.

At one point over the weekend though, it was appropriate.

I went down on U.S. 27 just south of South Bay to cover the dedication of a new pumping station recently installed as a joint project by the South Florida Conservancy District and the Palm Beach-Broward Soil and Water Conservation District.

The dedication, with U.S. Congressman Paul Rogers acting as the key speaker, was supposed to begin at 3 p.m. Saturday. At 2:59, the bottom fell out.

After the chairs and podium, and all 40 people gathered for the dedication, were bundled inside the pump house, the ceremony started... and almost ended before it began.

The rain pounding on the metal roof of that shed created all the serene stillness of the inside of a snare drum with an ace stickman working on the hides.

Three men stood up to say "a few words" and I doubt if anyone even heard a few. Man, it was raining!

Mrs. Lillian Cheer, head of the Palm Beach-Broward Soil and Water Conservation District, suggested calling the whole thing off until the rain slackened up a bit, but Congressman Rogers called out he could speak LOUD.

Matter of fact, when Bud Weaver introduced the Congressman, we found out he could speak up too. Bud commented the rain was what the pumps were all about anyway; that they were installed for the purpose of water control.

But I thought the Congressman got off the best comment of the day.

"Maybe," he said, "this is God's way of letting us know he likes short speeches, so I'm going to finish mine before lightning strikes."

Turned out I was the one lightning struck, though, at least figuratively.

After the dedication, the two districts threw a fish fry over at the marina and after I'd finished tucking

off the record

with Glenn Laney

Oh yes! It's that time of year again! Vacation!

For the next two weeks you won't have to look at my ugly face up here in the corner. I'm going back to my hometown-Watergate, U.S.A.

Yes, I'm one of the few people you meet who was actually born in our nation's capital, Washington, D.C. and really, it's a beautiful city.

I know, you hear all kinds of stories about crime running rampant through the streets. You hear it isn't safe to venture out at night-even in a locker car.

But you can pretty well hear that about any big city these days-and about some smaller ones as well. I haven't been in a big city that is cleaner than Washington, D.C. And for you history buffs-it's the best place in the entire country to revel in the past.

You can spend two weeks just wandering through the Smithsonian Institution and still not "see" everything. And a place that doesn't sound too interesting, but is a terribly fascinating building is the Library of Congress.

They have every book you've ever heard of and a lot you haven't. I was a believer in the Library of Congress at an early age.

I was doing a term paper my senior year in high school. My girlfriend and I went into the District to the Library of Congress to do some research.

The building itself is so huge it is awe-inspiring when you walk into it. You just can't believe any library is that big.

But the thing that really impressed me was that my girlfriend's great grandfather had written a book on the care of water lilies way back in the 19th century. Just for a lark we went to the card files to see if we could find it. And sure enough-there it was. I mean, if a library has a 19th century dissertation on the care of water lilies by an obscure author, what can it not have.

Anyway, it's been a long time since I've been home to visit my folks. I'm even going to spend a little time in West Virginia visiting my grandmother. So I'm looking forward to the trip.

But I'm sure that by the time I get back to Belle Glade a little more than two weeks hence, I'll be glad to be home again.

HOW LONG DOES IT REQUIRE AN ICEBERG TO MELT?

LAST FOR VARIOUS PERIODS OF YEARS DEPENDING ON THESE CONSTRUCTION! RAN EXET: SOME ICEBERGS HAVE TAKEN AS LONG AS 225 YEARS TO MELT!

NO! IF A PIANO WERE TUNED AT PERFECT INTERVALS, IT WOULD BE IMPOSSIBLE TO PLAY IN EVERY KEY!

Well, good-bye for a couple of weeks. I'll say hi to Richard for you.

I've been meaning to write something on one of the finest activities in this country for quite some time and never really got around to it. So I thought I would let my daughter tell you about the Youth Conservation Camp run by the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission. She's an expert now, having spent a whole week there swimming with the "baby" alligators.

So following is her story:

June 16 I went to summer camp. It was fun. There was canoeing, swimming, riflery, archery, arts and crafts and ecology. We go on mud hikes and you can hold a bow and arrow.

Sometimes we go on con hunts. It is fun everyday.

"In art we made belts, jackets, boots, moccasins, and other things. Ecology we get tracks. You learn to canoe, shoot a gun or shoot a bow and arrow."

"So go to Youth Conservation Camp."

I couldn't have put it better. They youth camp puts children where they belong-outdoors. It teaches them respect for nature and trains them to take care of themselves.

It isn't a swanky, rich kids camp by any means. It keeps the kids busy for the one or two weeks they are there. They are always doing something every day of the week.

The camp keeps them busy another four weeks after they come back home just talking about what all went on in camp. There should be more wholesome activities such as this for children.

Paul Rogers was in town making the best of a rainy day Saturday. The perennial Representative makes himself at home whether it is a swanky banquet or a fish fry in the rain at the Aubrey Farmer Pavilion.

There is very little doubt in anybody's mind that Rogers will win another two-year term this fall. It would be a shame if anybody were to unseat him.

He has fought long and hard in the past for the taxpayer. It was good to see him again in the Glades.

Well, good-bye for a couple of weeks. I'll say hi to Richard for you.

Follow the Reader...

AROUND THE WORLD is the theme for the local municipal library's summer program under the direction of the new librarian Mrs. Labadie.

The program helps children develop an interest for reading and also teaches them about the different types of literature available for the public.

Miss Linda Brown (top right) displays some of the books used to show the different types of literature in the United States and around the world. Above, Mrs. Van Winkle points to a picture in a book about music, demonstrating some of the various musical instruments used in the present and past years.

For anyone interested in American History, Mrs. Labadie (shown at right) her assistants put together a display of books about American and its people.

The children's summer reading program lasts for six weeks and the group meets every Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

Library News

Music is said to be the universal language of the world. The children in the Belle Glade Municipal Library's Summer Reading Program used this language as they followed the Reader Around the World with music on Thursday, June 27.

Mrs. Marian Van Winkle, playing a chord organ loaned to the library by Miss Hilde Almen, helped the children with the music. Mrs. Van Winkle discusses musical instruments with the children and showed them an array of books of and about music.

A Coke bottle filled with water was the musical instrument demonstrated by Miss Linda Brown. She showed how different tones could be made with different amounts of water in the bottle.

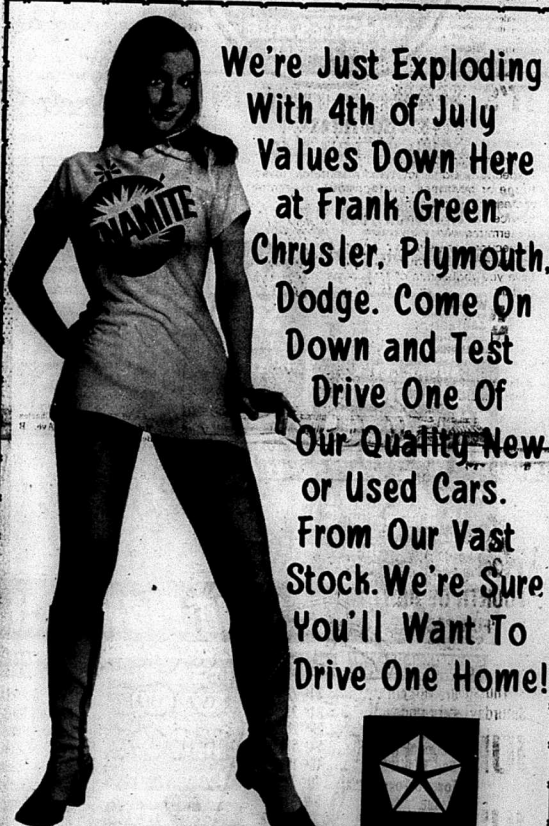

Besides learning different things about music, musical instruments, and various kinds of music such as that used in the orchestra, choral, or band the children enjoyed singing themselves.

They sang "America," "Mary had a Little Lamb," "John Brown had a Little Indian," "Row, Row, Your Boat" (sung as a round), "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star," and "This Old Man."

Since we are celebrating our country's birthday this week your public library has a special display of books on America. One group of books tells about our country's past which should be remembered and the other group gives different authors' views on how to mold our future. This is your country. Read about America.

The Belle Glade Municipal Library's summer hours are: Monday noon to 5, Tuesday 9 to 5, Wednesday thru Friday 9 to 6, Saturday, 9 to 5 and Sunday closed.

Farmers and Ranchers Advised to Keep Close Records

Farmers and ranchers, get ready for the 1974 Census of Agriculture!

Keep good records of your farming operations this year. This is the request of the Bureau of the Census, the Federal agency that will conduct the 20th nationwide Census of Agriculture during the first part of 1975. The Bureau is part of the U.S. Department of Commerce's

Social and Economic Statistics Administration.

Farmers will receive their report forms by mail early in January. They should fill them out and mail them back promptly. Having accurate and detailed records will make it easy for farmers to do this. Questions will be much like those in the last previous agriculture census which covered farming and ranching during 1969.

Questions will ask for acreage of cropland harvested and market value of major crops produced; acreage irrigated; and means of fertilization, lime and other kind of fertilizer (dry, liquid, gas).

'Our Lives, Fortune and Sacred Honor'

"When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to separation."

The words came thundering down the corridors of time, almost two centuries of time, from that hot and sultry day when 56 men gathered in Philadelphia to determine the fate of a nation.

"We hold these truths to be self-evident," Thomas Jefferson's pen wrote on, "that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights."

That, to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the governed...that, whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it."

They were the leaders of a grand revolt, these 56 men, possibly the grandest revolt of all time. It would become known as the American Revolution and the document the men signed on July 4, 1776 would, become hallowed by time.

But at the time, those men were preaching high treason against the British crown and George III considered the Declaration of Independence as an excuse for treason.

Knowing this, they signed anyway, under the words, "we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor."

We know what happened to some of the signers. George Washington became the first president and father of our country. Thomas Jefferson was later named president. Benjamin Franklin died a wealthy and honored man.

But what of the others. What prices did they pay for the audacity of signing such a document?

Five of the signers were captured by the British and tortured as traitors until they died.

Two had sons killed in the war which had already begun before Thomas Jefferson had penned the first draft of the Declaration.

Nine of the total 56 signers fought in that war and eventually died from wounds received.

What kind of men were they? They weren't the radicals of the French Revolution who stormed the Bastille 13 years later.

On the contrary, they were men of wealth and security, including 21 lawyers, 17 merchants, four physicians and nine farmers and plantation owners.

They were well educated and knew they were laying everything they owned and held dear on the line; that on signing the declaration, they had become, by definition, traitors.

Carter Braxton was a wealthy plantation owner from Virginia. His ships were sunk by the British Navy and he had to sell his home and possessions to pay his debts. He died penniless.

Thomas McKean was pursued by the British so he had to continually flee with his family. His family had to remain in hiding and he spent his remaining years in absolute poverty.

All he owned was taken from him and he served in Congress without pay.

Soldiers, vandals or both looted the property of Clymer, Ellery, Gwinnett, Hall, Hayward, Middleton and Rutledge. General Cornwallis had taken over his home for his headquarters.

Nelson never mentioned this to Washington, but instead urged him to attack the house, which was done. Nelson's home was destroyed. He died penniless and his grave is unknown and unmarked.

Francis Lewis had his property and home destroyed. His wife was jailed by the British and she died a few months later.

John Hart was forced to leave his dying wife's bedside and his 13 children had to flee for their own lives.

Everything he owned was laid waste and for more than a year he had to hide in caves and in the woods. After the war, he returned to an empty home. He never heard from his family again, for he died a few months later from exhaustion.

These were the fates of a few of the men who dared sign the document asserting King George III's rule had one object relative to his North American colonies, "the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these States."

Their fates proved these men, these traitors, these revolutionaries, to be men with a deep sense of honor and in these days of Watergate and wide-sweeping governmental scandals on every level, it may be wise to reflect on them.

The study of history is important only as long as we learn from the mistakes of our forefathers and guide our own lives and times accordingly.

In the United States, we hold the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution to be documents surrounded with a mystic aura, so long have they been hallowed.

One proof of this is the fact the U.S. Constitution has been amended only 16 times since it was first written and ratified along with the Bill of Rights, in 1790 by the last state, Rhode Island.

It's notable that not one of these amendments have dared change the main body of the document and only one amendment has reversed a previous amendment.

But, sacred as most Americans hold the two documents, a survey taken a few years ago found few people on the street could identify excerpts of the Declaration of Independence.

Some of the people interviewed thought the excerpts were taken from the Communist Manifesto. Most said the words were treason.

And they were right.

The thin line dividing treason and revolution is success. While many of the 56 signers of the Declaration suffered for their part in it, all would have been hung as traitors to the crown had the rag tag armies of the colonies failed to win the war.

Because they won, the signers are considered martyrs and heroes by those who remember what happened to them.

U.S. ARMY

When it comes to observing the Fourth of July, there are few people who know what it means better than the people in the nation's armed forces.

The Declaration of Independence would have meant nothing had there not been men ready to die for the liberty it envisioned, for everyone's right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. That's what the nation's military services are all about, maintaining those rights for American citizens everywhere...and that's what the U.S. Army has been about since it was formed almost two centuries ago.

But today's Army isn't simply a matter of 200 years of tradition unimpeded by progress. Today's Army is as modern as a blast-off at Cape Kennedy, as up-to-date as philosophies being taught in America's universities.

Today's All-Volunteer Army offers recruits a wide range of choices, including a new two-year program instead of the traditional three or four year enlistment.

To make it better, should you wish to become a part of it all, you get a guaranteed choice of job training or choice of location.

If you're already skilled in one of a long list of job classifications, the Army is ready to start you off at a better-than-ever start.

If you have two years of experience in one of the jobs listed, you start your service as a Spec. 4, with a starting salary of $392 a month...and that includes the traditional fringe benefits such as free medical care and a 30-day furlough every year.

If you've had three years experience, you're even better off. You start off as a sergeant making $438 a month.

And if you don't have a skill already, and want to try something different, enlist in one of the combat arms fields, such as today's infantry, armor, artillery or airborne and start off right with a $2,500 combat arms bonus.

If you have a high school education, you can get anywhere from a $1,500 to $2,500 bonus by choosing a list of career fields, with payment coming after graduation from the training school.

Whatever you choose, you'll become a member of one of the world's finest strike teams; the U.S. Army.

Fireworks Can Be Dangerous

Although the sale of the more dangerous types of fireworks have been illegal for several years, the Fourth of July still manages to provide its share of fireworks-related injuries every year.

A 40-year-old man lost a foot after a friend threw a silver salute at him and yelled. The victim stepped back onto the firecracker.

Automobile accidents resulted in many deaths and injuries last year but fireworks also played their part in mutilating and maiming Americans from all walks of life.

A 15-year-old's hand was partially amputated after he lit the fuse of an M-100, tried to extinguish it with his fingers, and then couldn't get rid of the firecracker before it exploded.

Such "toys" as cherry bombs, aerial bombs, M-80 salutes and other firecrackers resulted in the deaths, blindings, amputations and severe burns of many people illegally "doing their own thing" on July 4th.

Children have traditionally received more than their share of these injuries and mutilations.

A 2-year-old boy received burns to the eye when he ran into an ignited hand fountain being held by his sister.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission estimated 6,500 fireworks victims were treated in hospital emergency rooms last year and two thirds of the victims were under the age of 15.

Motivated by such results, the federal government established the Child Protection Act of 1966, prohibiting the sale of the most dangerous types of fireworks.

The act bans the sale of any fireworks containing more than two grains of gunpowder or the mail-order kits then used to build such devices as cherry bombs, salutes and other high-powered fireworks.

But while some of the injuries suffered last year were due to the "illegal" fireworks, most were caused by legal fireworks.

A 5-year-old boy spent ten days in the hospital with burns after another small child ignited the sleeve of his shirt with a sparkler after an argument. The victim ran home, further spreading the fire.

If fireworks are still going to be used, the commission urged parents to remember fireworks are not toys. Even the sparkler, considered by many the ideal "safe" firework for children, burns at a high temperature and can easily ignite clothing.

Washington's Prayer For The United States

Almighty God; we make our earnest prayer that Thou wilt keep the United States in Thy holy protection; that Thou wilt incline the hearts of the citizens to cultivate a spirit of subordination and obedience to government . . . and finally that Thou wilt most graciously be pleased to dispose us all to do justice, to love mercy and to demean ourselves with that charity, humility and pacific temper of mind which were the characteristics of the Divine Author of our blessed religion, and without a humble imitation of whose example in these things we can never hope to be a happy nation.

LOOKING FORWARD

I LOOK FORWARD to a great future for America — a future in which our country will match its military strength with our moral strength, its wealth with our wisdom, its power with our purpose.

I LOOK FORWARD to an America which will not be afraid of grace and beauty, which will protect the beauty of our natural environment, which will preserve the great old American houses and squares and parks of our national past, and which will build handsome and balanced cities for our future.

I LOOK FORWARD to an America which will reward achievement in the arts as we reward achievement in business or statecraft.

I LOOK FORWARD to an America which will steadily raise the standards of artistic accomplishment and which will steadily enlarge cultural opportunities for all of our citizens.

I LOOK FORWARD to an America which commands respect throughout the world not only for its strength but for its civilization as well. And I look forward to a world which will be safe not only for democracy and diversity but also for personal distinction.

Do not allow younger children to play with fireworks under any circumstances. They cannot appreciate the danger involved and cannot act correctly in the case of an emergency. Luckily, Glades area residents have no particular need to supply their children with fireworks. There is a first class display every year at the Palmetto Harbor and another at Clewiston. Everybody wants a Fun Fourth but a Flaming Fourth doesn't necessarily answer that description.

The Industry is fully aware of the necessity and importance of maintaining and improving the everyday environmental conditions. In an effort to meet higher environmental standards, the sugar industry is working in two broad areas—air and water. Under the emissions program the industry has begun installing scrubbers on its mill's boiler stacks and is strictly controlling its open field burning in compliance with regulations. Under the water quality program, the industry has water treatment and self-containment projects. The effectiveness of the two programs is tightly watched by the industry's air/water monitoring procedures.

Although the program is not completed, the industry is proud of its accomplishments in recent months and pledges to continue its all-out efforts to make the Glades area a Better Place to Live....

The Cubans, They Were There

This question has been asked of many American professors and intellectuals and the answer has always been the same. "No, I was not aware that Cuba played a part."

In order that North Americans and Cubans alike be cognizant of the decisive participation on the part of the Cubans in the realization of American independence, we have to recall the blood spilled and the monetary assistance extended by the Cubans in what author Rafael Estenzer has called "the first brotherhood in arms in America."

America's history, beginning, this historical record, we should recall that historians are in agreement that Spanish forces, in the early 1800s, and made-up largely of Cuban militia and battalions of black slaves, and the hacendados led by Generals Bernardo Gálvez and Juan Manuel de Céspedes, the latter of which was born in Santiago de Cuba, were successful in ending English control in Mississippi and the Gulf of Mexico, the cities of Mobile and Pensacola, and the rice areas at Baton Rouge, Louisiana, and Palmyra and the Florida Keys, as well as the Bahama Islands. This campaign that was successful in ending English control in the Eastern part of the Eastern Seaboard obliged England to recognize the United States at key points in the struggle in the North. The diversion of the British forces in that the American Revolution, Napoleon's arrival in France, concentration at a specific time and place, and the time of troops and materiel, and the fact that was violated, and was a determining factor in Corra and surrender. In the study of the Battle of Pensacola, Norwin Rush, Director of Libraries at Florida State University, Professor of the same institution and noted member of the Florida Historical Society, says: "As we contemplate the larger and more comprehensive picture, we begin to see more clearly that the loss of Pensacola was of large significance in the eventual triumph of the American Revolution in spite of the fact that the name of the Thirteen Colonies took part in the Battle. The Battle of Pensacola was one of the most brilliantly executed battles of the war. With the conquest of Pensacola, Spain, England lost a very important military position in its last support position in

Dr. J. Isorn in his "Cuban Pioneers in the United States, 1575-1898", points out the very important fact that when General Galvez considered a continued siege of Pensacola useless and hopeless, General Cagial opportunely arrived at the head of his Havana troops and turned the battle from a probable defeat into a victory.

In the book "A History of Cuba in its Relations with the United States and Spain", written by Dr. Herminio Portell Vila and unfortunately not translated into English, the eminent service in favor of American independence lent by Havana merchant shipper Don Juan Miralles can be verified. Miralles was named as the most important representative of the Havana Government before George Washington. He was a congressman at Philadelphia. So enthusiastic was Miralles about the American Revolution that he became advisor to Washington and the Continental Congress. The numerous problems presented by the logistics of a front as far from the theater of operations as the Gulf and the borders of Mississippi. At the time of the signing of the Havana Government, it was granted that American troops would be stationed in Cuban ports, that trade could be established between the United States and the Colonies; that Commodore Alexander Guillon could be named as the American representative at the Arsenal of Havana which at that time had the largest naval yard in the Hemisphere, for storing, arming, and storing of his ships. Miralles was making he was able to do the personal guarantee of the American Government. Miralles, since the commodore Alexander Guillon, the Poente, a relative of Miralles, since the commodore Alexander Guillon, this at a time when England and Spain were still at relating to the Ducats. We offer next to the readers a tight synthesis of the historical events outlined in the above manuscript.

Almost 200 years ago our forefathers fought to make this country free. This July 4th let's lift our heads high and be proud to say we are Americans.

Francis Joseph Paul, Marquis de Grasse-Tilly (Admiral De Grasse) left the port of Brest, France, on the 22nd of March, 1781, at the head of a fleet of 23 warships, conveying 320 vessels loaded with provisions and equipment valued at 30 million Pounds, arriving in Martinique on the 28th of April. The Admiral carried instructions to destroy the English naval forces operating in the Antilles, and to cooperate with Washington and Rochambeau.

On arriving at Cape Haiti, De Grasse encountered the frigate Concorde coming from Newport and carrying letters from Washington and Rochambeau who informed De Grasse of the bankrupt state of the Thirteen Colonies, and of the circumstance that Rochambeau could only count on provisions and funds until the following August since English warships had intercepted all the shipments from France, and of the fact that there was a possibility of Virginia falling to the English. The fleet was urgently requested to bring reinforcements and provisions, and above all, money.

De Grasse made unsuccessful negotiations in Haiti which at that time was the coffee and sugar capital of the world, and, following the advice of the Spanish representative (there) that he attempt negotiations in Havana, opted to go to Cuba. Facing the reefs of the Paso de los Vieques (Windward Passage) De Grasse sent a frigate to Baracoa, Cuba, in search of Cuban pilots, who eventually led the fleet to Matanzas where it anchored. Following the frigate Agrette to Havana, De Grasse's mission nearly failed since the Spanish treasury was empty. The situation was saved by ladies of the Havana aristocracy which contributed a donation of a Million dollars, and such was the spontaneity of their act, must be said to the honor of the colonists that all were eager to do so, (the ladies even offering their diamonds).

De Grasse left Matanzas for Virginia and succeeded in the following: he returned the patriots with 4,000 men, provisions and supplies; he blocked Cornwallis' forces; he prevented 35,000 inactive English soldiers in the State of New York from arriving at the Battle of Yorktown. American independence was a fact. De Grasse turned over the one million dollars to Washington who was able to forestall bankruptcy for the emerging nation and was able to lift the morale of an army that had already begun to disband.

Story Of The Stars And Stripes

The first flag adopted by our colonial forefathers were symbols of their struggles with the wilderness of a new land. Beavers, pine trees, rattlesnakes, anchors, and various like insignia with mottoes such as "Hope," "Liberty," "Appeal to Heaven" or "Don't Tread on Me" were affixed to the different banners.

The first flag of the colonists to have any resemblance to the present Stars and Stripes was the Grand Union flag, sometimes referred to as the "Congress Colors." It consisted of thirteen stripes, alternately red and white, representing the Thirteen Colonies, with a blue field in the upper left hand corner bearing the crosses of St. George and St. Andrew, signifying union with the mother country. This banner was first flown by the ships of the Colonial Fleet in the Delaware River in December, 1776.

The Grand Union flag was the standard of the Continental Army when the latter came into being in January, 1776, and was also carried by Marines and American Blue jackets comprising an expeditionary force in the West Indies during that year. During the previous year a cotton (section) of thirteen stripes appeared on the yellow silk standard of the Philadelphia troop of Light Horse when the latter served as an escort to General Washington who was journeying to Cambridge, Massachusetts, to assume command of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut and New Hampshire volunteers.

English flag. This indicates how difficult it was for the colonists, even at this late date, to break away entirely from the British flag under which they had been born and had lived all the years of their lives.

Many Americans still believe that Betsy Ross made the first flag, although historians dispute this story. Another disputed story is that the first Stars and Stripes displayed in the face of an armed enemy was at Fort Mifflin, August 3, 1777. The flag was improvised. The white part came from a soldier's shirt; a captain's cloak supplied the blue of the union; and the red stripes came from the flannel petticoat of a soldier's wife, who gladly donated it for the purpose. However, this was probably a Grand Union flag. Continental Congress passed a resolution that established the Stars and Stripes on June 14, 1777, but did not specify the arrangement of the thirteen stars on the blue union, except to say that they should represent a new constellation. As a consequence we find a variety of forms. The first Army flag, popularly known as the Betsy Ross flag, had them arranged in a circle, based on the idea that no colony should take precedence. The first Navy Stars and Stripes had the stars arranged in staggered formation in alternate lines and rows of three and two on a blue field. A close inspection of this arrangement of the stars shows a distinct outline of the diagonal X-shaped cross and the cross of St. George of the

The Resolution of June 14, 1777, establishing the Stars and Stripes has an interesting history. After the Declaration of Independence, colonial vessels were putting to sea to harp enemy communications and pry on British commerce. Many of them flew the flag of the particular colonies to which they could sail. For England considered armed vessels without such a flag as pirate ships and hanged their crews when they captured them. So the Marine Committee of the Second Continental Congress presented the Resolution, which was on the subject of the Navy.

General Washington, when the Star-Spangled Banner was first flown by the Continental Army, is said to have described its symbolism as follows: "We take the stars from heaven, the red from our mother country, separating it by white stripes, thus showing that we have separated from her, and the white stripes shall go down to posterity representing liberty."

After the admission of Kentucky and Vermont, a resolution was adopted in January, 1794, making the flag one of fifteen stars and fifteen stripes.

Realizing that the flag would become unwieldy with a stripe for each new State, Captain Samuel C. Reid, USN, suggested to Congress that the stripes remain thirteen in number to represent the Thirteen Colonies, and that a star be added to the blue field for each new State coming into the Union. A law of April 4, 1818, that resulted requires that a star be added for each new State on the 4th of July after its admission. A 48-star flag came with admission of Arizona and New Mexico in 1912. Alaska added a 49th star in 1959, and Hawaii paved the way for 50 stars in 1960.

The Second Freedom

"Find a need and fill it"—that's the secret of success in a free enterprise system.

But those six words tell us much more than the recipe for wealth. They tell us a lot about the nature of a society in which such advice proves true; a lot we take for granted.

What do they tell us?

First, that a free enterprise society is concerned with the fulfillment of human needs.

Virtually every modern socio-economic system claims to have this objective. But in some societies, the determination of which "needs" to satisfy is vested in a small group.

Under a free enterprise system, each individual has the right to make his own decisions about the needs requiring attention, and to act on those decisions. If he is correct, he will be rewarded—not for his greed, but for his service to the community.

Second, the six words tell us that a member of a free enterprise society is free to criticize the established way of doing things.

Finding fault with the status quo is an essential prerequisite to making improvements. We value what works in our economic system, we do not have to pretend that it works because we value it.

Third, we can see from the first two conclusions that a free enterprise system brings to the identification and resolution of economic problems the greatest possible amount and diversity of human intelligence. There is literally no broader base conceivable than one which encompasses every individual member of the society.

We seldom think of our economic freedom as one of the fundamental freedoms, yet its loss would probably be noticed more quickly, by more people, than the loss of freedom of speech, worship, petition, or due process of law.

Imagine what life would be like if you could not choose your job; if you could not strike or quit; if you could not decide for yourself where to live, what goods to buy, what clothes to wear.

We exercise political freedom rarely; we exercise economic freedom many times each day.

It's worth remembering, as we approach our annual celebration of political independence, that the settlers who founded America and the immigrants who have helped build it came here seeking economic freedom, as well as political and religious freedom.

It's worth remembering that economic repression is one of the indictments found in the Declaration of Independence.

It's worth remembering on the 177th anniversary of the U.S. that economic freedom is—and will always be—the most fundamental freedom.

And, in so doing we HONOR AMERICA and those responsible for this freedom.

Freedom Is...

Freedom is a man at the lathe, or at the desk, doing the job he likes to do, and speaking up for himself. It is a man in the pulpit, or on the corner, speaking his mind. It is a man putting in his garden in the evening, and swapping talk with his neighbor over the fence. It is the unafraid faces of men and women and children at the beach on Sunday, or looking out of the car windows speeding along a four-lane highway.

It is a man saying, "Howdy, stranger," without looking cautiously over his shoulder. It is the people of the country making up their own minds. It is a soprano singing "The Star-Spangled Banner" off key and meaning every word of it.

Freedom is the air you breathe and the sweat you sweat. It is you and millions like you with your chins up daring anybody to take it away from you.

Florida— 200 Years Ago

Jacksonville—What was Florida like nearly 200 years ago as the thirteen original American Colonies were preparing to wage war for their independence?

The Florida State Chamber of Commerce said in its Weekly Business Review that the state had a population estimated to be about 30,000 persons, not counting Indians, in the early 1770's. This compares with today's estimate of about 7.4 million, counting everyone. Big economic wars of the 1770's centered around England's encouragement to inventors to accept land grants in the state. This was backed up with British to Florida plantation owners, the establishment industry of the day, for rice and indigo both of which were in heavy demand in British markets.

Today, land is still a big factor in the state's economy but investors need very little encouragement from anyone to put their money in the state. And, of course, citrus, timber, and truck farm products are the main agricultural leaders and most people wouldn't know "indigo" if they saw it," commented Ronald S. Spencer Jr., Executive Vice President of the State Chamber.

While the flames of revolution were being fanned in the big, prosperous thirteen northern colonies, Florida residents were lining up on the side of the British Crown.

"This wasn't exactly patriotic because the United States was not a country yet and many of the mistakes made by the Crown in the northern colonies were not made in Florida," noted Spencer. "Besides, Florida was to be handed over to the Spanish in 1763 and the Sunshine State would not be acquired by the United States government until 1821," he added.

The Review said economic statistics on Florida in the 1770's are not overly abundant. The plantation system was dominant and there were more blacks in the state than whites. But, Florida's geography made the land important and desirable in Revolutionary days just as it is today, making it the common denominator throughout the state's economic history.

City Vote

Belle Glade City Clerk Vera Jones is finding there's some difference between the names on voter registration books and finding the people those names belong to.

For the first time in history, Belle Glade's city election on Sept. 10 will be held with the voter registration books under the control of Palm Beach County Supervisor of Elections Jackie Winchester.

This means that anyone wanting to vote in the upcoming city election for the city's two at-large candidates must be registered with both the city and county in order to cast his or her ballot.

To make sure everyone knew about the new requirement, Mrs. Jones said this week she contacted Mrs. Winchester to get a list of all the voters in the city's old books which aren't registered in the same precinct with the county.

As of Wednesday, Mrs. Jones said she had received a list of 5,875 names of people registered to vote in the last city election who weren't registered with the county and she had mailed each of these voters a letter telling of the new requirement.

As of the same time, almost 200 of those letters had been returned by the Postal Service because the letter carriers hadn't been able to deliver them.
